COMMISSIONER'S Western Tour.

Winnipeg Ablaze—Crowds—Excitement Souls—Social Reform.

BY MAJOR LEIGHTON.

At 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 19th, the Pacific Express left the Union Depot and set out on its way through the darkness of the Sabbath-keeping Sunday. Our Commissioner, Mrs. Adams and Staff, on a mission is to shed darkness from the souls of mankind and bring into them the glorious light and liberty of the children of God.

Onward speeds the iron horse and its freight until at 8.30 a.m. we arrive at North Bay, where we had three hours stay. After a rather tedious wait, we, our train arrived from Montreal and we are soon on board the through train for the West.

A rough most beautiful and wonderful way we are hurrying along, sometimes creeping over the mountains with a rapidly flowing current beneath us, again passing by the side of beautifully calm and placid lakes, and then in a few minutes the scene is changed, we pass between the overhanging rocks that have been through by the marvellous skill built the great track from east to ocean.

Several hours we were close to the shore of Lake Superior and as we neared the coast and wound round the side of the cliffs the changing views we had were gloriously beautiful and magnificent.

At length Port Arthur is reached and we at stage of our journey to Winnipeg which then begun. On Fort William we strike out in almost straight for our destination.

Another night (the) in the cars, by the dawn of day we find ourselves rapidly approaching the famous City of Winnipeg, finally on time we cross the Red River and see before us the Great Western Capitol.

Arrived at the station we are met by Majors Morris and the band and soldiers, and the Commissioner and Mrs. Adams descend from the cars a mighty shout of welcome rent the air. Borne aloft on eight poles was a large banner inscribed:

WELCOME TO
GEN'L'S COMMISSIONER & MRS. ADAMS,
BRIGADIER ROLLAND,
MAJOR LEIGHTON, & LIEUT. LEE, GUITAR PLAYER.
SOCIAL REFORM.

"Fall in!" "Fire a volley!" cried the Commissioner. Another tremendous shout and off we go to the barracks.

We pass down Main street which is by far the finest street I have seen in Canada, and in my opinion is fully equal to any thoroughfare in the world. On either side is seen beautifully designed buildings that are a triumph of architectural skill. The stores are large and commodious, and the enterprise of their proprietors is manifested by the strikingly original advertising that abounds.

At length we reach the barracks where a short meeting was held. The Commissioner and Mrs. Adams both spoke a few words and expressed their pleasure at being able to visit Winnipeg, and thanked the soldiers and friends for the given to them. During the day business of various kinds was transacted and at night a great meeting was held.

The march was a good one, the flag above mentioned led the way, followed by the band, the war chariot and soldiers. A lively march right up Main street and past the City Hall, which is a splendid building and well worth going a long way to see. The Post Office is only a short distance away and is one of the finest buildings I have seen for Postal purposes. At the corner of James street a short open-air meeting was held and the war chariot was surrounded by hundreds of people. Major Morris announced the visitors, and Major Leighton stood up in the war chariot and addressed the crowd. He spoke of the life of sin from which God had saved him and invited sinners to seek salvation without delay.

The procession was then reformed and in a few minutes we were in the barracks where a large crowd had assembled to hear of

Our Social Reform Work.

Capt. Rennie prayed, and Major Morris gave out the song, "We are marching on in His might made strong." It went with a swing, and was followed by prayer. Several soldiers and the Commissioner having prayed. Major Leighton sang a solo, and red-hot shots were fired by the soldiers. Lieut. Lee sang "I'm a Soldier in the Salvation Band," and then the was welcomed by a rousing volley as he rose to speak on "Social Reform." With extraordinary effect the Commissioner poured forth burning words of truth, and at several points his remarks were applauded. During his speech the Commissioner said.

"I am very glad I am a soldier. The last time I was here I told you that we were marching on, and thank God I have not come to report any declensions. We spend our time in doing unto mankind as we would like mankind to do to us. During the last year we have had 13,000 converts and 4000 of these have been made into soldiers. We do not know what retreat is. The Salvation Army has for twenty-five years kept away from helping people's bodies, but now the time has come when the Salvation Army must do something for the poor people around us. We are not going to encourage

People who Won't Work.

If people won't work then they should not eat. We are willing to go into the harlot's lot's den and do something for this class of people and God is going to help us. We are not only going to help the women but also the men, who are in many cases the cause of their downfall. We have now commenced a work that will be a blessing to these poor creatures. We have opened a

Prison Gate Home

in Toronto, and thank God twelve men are already in our Home, and several of them are converted and doing well. We are having wonderful success in this branch and mighty things are going to be done."

At the close of the Commissioner's address Major Morris invited the sinners present to come to Christ at once, and we entered our prayer meeting believing for victory. After a long, hard struggle we had the joy of seeing come to the Cross! Hallelujah!

Four Souls

We went home tired in body but rejoicing over the victory won.

At 6.30 a.m. Majors Leighton and Morris led the knee-drill and we took hold of God in earnest, and got equipped for the day's fight.

The morning open-air was a regular rouser. With band to the front we marched round some of the principal streets, and on our arrival at the barracks a large crowd had assembled for the holiness meeting. The meeting was opened with the grand old song, "Oh how happy are they who the Saviour obey." Majors Leighton and Morris prayed, after which Lieut. Lee sang "Keep on believing," which went well. Major Morris led the testimonies which were very freely given and were very definite. One of those saved in the Saturday night meeting testified. Here are a few of the testimonies:

1.—"It is easier for me to do right than wrong."

2.—"I know that the Blood of Jesus keeps me daily without sin. I do love my Jesus with all my heart."

3.—"I am thankful that God has power to sanctify and keep me all the day long."

MARCHING BY THE CITY HALL, WINNIPEG.

The General's Address.

On the Occasion of the Farewell of Fifty Officers, Called the "Memorial Fifty," at Exeter Hall, London, England, for India.

I am here to introduce to you our comrades who are taking farewell of us, and to whom we want to give our blessing, and to ask the Divine blessing and protection upon as they go away to their important duty in a distant land.

All of you will excuse me making a passing reference to the great sorrow that has overtaken me since it was last my privilege to stand on this platform. I have no doubt I appear to you very much the same. I feel sometimes as though the friends around me might be a little amazed. I have always had the capacity of being carried away with the duty of the hour. The great realities of the business to which I have devoted myself now for many years are almost sufficient to over-power, very largely, when I come to the front, the personal feelings which, at other times, will assert themselves whether I will or no.

I allude to the loss I have suffered in My Beloved Wife.

If I had forgotten it for the hour, this platform and this congregation would bring it to my mind—this platform from whence, with such Divine unction, with such lovely simplicity, and with such deep earnestness of spirit, she has so often spoken for her Master, and so often claimed the hearts and the possessions and the lives of those who have sat before her, for His service, and for the cause of humanity. ("Amens.")

I come here to-night without her; I have to finish the fight, so far as I am concerned, comparatively speaking, alone. I remember reading—and some of you will remember it, too, I have no doubt—one of the most beautiful incidents in the life of John Wesley. It appears that towards the close of his career, his friends almost had been his sworn companions in arms, and who had stood by him all the way through his conflicts, was taken home, and the tidings came to Mr. Wesley just before he ascended the pulpit to preach to a crowded audience. In the vestry he opened the letter and read it, and then quietly went into the pulpit, and gave out the inimitable hymn, called "Wrestling Jacob:"

"Come, O thou traveller unknown,
Whom yet I hold, but cannot see;
My company before has gone,
And I alone am left with Thee.
With Thee all night I mean to stay,
And wrestle till the break of day!"

I thank God these are my sentiments. ("Hallelujah!") A choice part of my company has gone before me, a great light has gone out of my life, but

I am With Him!

("Praise God!") If I stay here I stay with Him, and He stays with me.

I will stay with Him here till the morning breaks, the shadows flee away and I fly to meet again my comrade and companions of ever-more rest! (Voices.) Until then I wrestle with God on behalf of man, and, by His grace, I will wrestle with men for their souls, and on behalf of my Master, for I am the servant and soldier of Jesus Christ and Him crucified. (Volley.)

I am here to-night to speak about

Darkest India.

On Monday night I hope to speak on "Darkest England." They are both dark enough. God help us to look at the darkness! ("Amen.") The apathy of men is, to my mind, something marvellous, the knack they have of turning their eyes away from the heart-breaking sorrows of their fellow men. The selfishness of man is the last thing from which he is saved, the last bit of the old Adam that dies.

It goes with him into his religion, and very largely into the Kingdom of God. It is a long way on the Divine road—it ought not to be—when Jesus Christ thoroughly and utterly destroys the works of the devil. There seems to be a sort of feeling, "Let me get saved that my soul's interests are safe, or get some sort of notion that when I die I shall go to heaven, and then let me alone myself to the promotion of my earthly happiness!" So they turn their eyes away from the miseries and sorrows and tears and cries and groans of those who are round about them, and pass on their way.

I often say, and it is a maxim that should govern all true religious enterprise, that if you can get men to look at heaven and at hell, they will want to go to heaven and shun the road to hell; and it is quite true that you cannot look at the miseries of your fellows without the broken hearts, without wanting to do something for the multitudes living and dying without Christ, without wanting to carry salvation to them.

Our topic to-night is the condition of Darkest India, and what can we do to enlighten that darkness. What light presents itself to us? Here you have two hundred and fifty millions of people, nearly every one of whom is accessible to Christian effort. You can go and speak to those crowds without being stoned, without being even mocked, and taunted as you would be in the streets of "Darkest England," and very largely without being misrepresented in the papers; that is, if you go to them in the meek and humble spirit of your Master, not as the rulers of a conquering nation, it is marvellous how they will listen to you if you go to them in the fashion and spirit of the conqueror—they will probably turn upon you and say, "You have taken away our freedom, conquered our country, you tax us at your pleasure, and you have the insolence to trample upon us in the streets, and kick us out of the way when we interpose between them and their good pleasure; and now, having taken away our liberties, you want to come in with the lordly spirit and take away our religion since."

On the other hand, if you go to them and say, "Brothers and sisters," not only with your lips, but with your hearts, "we have come down, so to speak, to the very level of their circumstances and position, and put your arms round about them, and, by the power of every sentiment I utter Commissioner Booth here is able to confirm—they will listen to you. They will not be prejudiced against religion, but will welcome you as men and brothers, and be willing to hear you; and you will know very well that the poorest man begin to believe in their fellows being sincerely by unselfish feelings in coming to seek to do them good, and they will be ready to receive the sentiments they proclaim.

From missionary speeches, meetings and journeys in which, I presume, everybody is pretty familiar, you know everything about the dark cruelties and wretched conditions of these millions of people.

What is to be the Remedy?

Are we to leave them as they are? Are we to be contented with our title to heaven, calling ourselves Christian Christians, without having His Spirit? And if we have not His Spirit, it is not terment us, day by day, out of our selfish lazyness, nouse and ease, and send us forth, as He did His apostles, into these crowds to His feet and make them fight under His banner?

But apart from the love we bear to Christ, apart from His Spirit, if we are only actuated by the spirit of humanity which is something itself in all directions and which has welcomed the sentiments contained "In Darkest England" although it appears to the prejudice of the Salvation Army, and says, "Let us help each other, let us work around us; Let's our money and we'll help you; Don't you believe the Salvation of the Cross is the remedy? Don't you like that human flesh is heir to? Don't we want a Great Deliverer? Jesus—is the Great Liberator? Don't we want Jesus—is the Jesus Who will lift up the poor man, right the wrongs of the oppressed, and break the manacles of the fettered? Don't we want the Spirit of Jesus which will come and from their oppressed, down-trodden condition; which will rectify the controversy between the capital and labor, rich and poor? Don't we believe it is Jesus Who is going to bring in the millennium if ever it comes? Don't we believe it is Jesus Who is off? (Loud cries of "Amen" and "glory!") Very well, then, on to your feet, cross your hands forward with your banner, and go and carry that message to these two hundred and fifty millions of people, and tell them of God's love, of God's kind of spirit, to receive it."

Nothing seems to me more contemptible—but, why strong things sometimes, I can't help it (laughter); I sometimes come very near on for swearing (much laughter), but I very hold excuse me under the circumstances; it is quite as reasonable as some of those hard words you use when you hear of your favorite old teapot that your grandmother left you is broken, and when similar troubles come upon you (laughter) nothing seems so despicable, I was going to say, because so out of all reasonable proportions, as the efforts that are being put forth by the Church of Jesus Christ, for the Salvation of these two hundred and fifty millions. Here are the Churches of England and America, with men in their ranks who glory in millionaires, or thousandaires, or some kind of "aires" in the way, who have got their pockets lined and their hearts shrivelled up in back—they live in swell houses, are clothed in fine, and fare sumptuously every day, and content themselves with that fall from their tables to tell Jesus Christ to save these millions.

Look at them! How many missionaries might we have to-day? How many men and women, call them what you like? I don't care what you call them, so their hearts be on fire with the love of Jesus and their hands clean from human selfishness; so their hearts be purified by the Blood of Christ, and they know His power to transform and save a man right off, without teaching him Greek and Latin; I don't care about that! How can you tell whether they baptize with water or no, whether they go in for this ceremonious, this other, whether they wear gowns and vestments and lodgowns outside their trousers, or what they wear—(much laughter) if only their hearts be right.

How many missionaries are there in India? About a thousand. It ought to be a hundred thousand! The churches of this country could send the right kind, their sons and daughters right away if they would, and—put a hundred pounds into some railway debentures, and give them the interest of five pounds per annum, then they would be fed for the rest of their days! (Laughter.)

Endow them on Salvation Army Principles!

Perhaps you say it will never be. By-and-bye, agency that India will be saved. Quite right, Commissioner and Mrs. Booth, it is native agency that is going to do it. There are hundreds of cities in which the Salvation Army work. It is the native that must go to the native. The native understands the ways of a foreigner never can, the idioms of the language, and the ways and ways of thought and feeling; and, more than all, he is not a foreigner. But when a man becomes a proper Christian he gets rid of the idea of there being some inferiority about a man who is a foreigner.

Salvationists are Cosmopolitan, one man is as good as another, and a sister is as good as a French better! (Laughter.) We are increasing the native agency in something like the rate (for the last year) of nearly two hundred and fifty officers per annum, and, with the help of the other missionary denominations, we hope to see India flooded with native agency.

There is one thought I would like to express here. I don't want to make any reflection, but there is a great notion that you cannot get a native to come to Christ. Well, all I have to say is, the Salvation Army has got as many women as men saved (if you reckon one woman as good as two men. (Laughter.)

It is quite true that it is difficult to get at the upper ten of ladies in India, the same as the upper ten of ladies in England. It is easier to go and get a washerwoman saved than

The Lady Who Rides About on Rotten Row.

But in each case you must adapt yourselves to their circumstances. If you want to win the slums you must live in the slums. If you want to win to save the people of the West End, you must have a house in Hyde Park, and drive round Rotten Row. Jesus Christ is building up the Salvation Army, and tackle my Lord in the and my Lady that. (Volley and laughter.) Well, then shall we have some West-Enders who will dare to do it? God, Jesus, the time!

The hearts of the Hindoos are made very much after the same fashion as the hearts of Englishmen, and the devil is very much after the same fashion for Africa as in England—I don't think he is quite so fast in the devil in London; and so if you learn how to deal with the devil in very useful when you come to fight him there.

We are trying to do this. For this purpose we are sending out some fifty-five natives of England, Scotland, Ireland, Sweden, America, and Canada. In this country I have heard very much of how there my two daughters, my son-in-law and my grandson here—(here the General and Mrs. Booth, and Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker's little baby-boy and baby-girl in view of the audience)—but they are taking up my work, and I am sure that will be something like ten years, the housemaids one of the dear creatures, who, in a most unselfish way, offered to take my place, my darling wife—and little Dot here, the pet orphan of my beloved. ("God bless them!")

Our progress in India and Ceylon has been something like the following:—

Year	Corps.	Officers.	Officers.	Native.	Total.
1882	15	23	..	41	99
1888	96	171	..	102	273
1890	96	171	..	270	441

With regard to the progress of to-day, our success during the last two or three months has been greater than at any previous period of our work in India. I have often hoped to live to see the prophecy fulfilled about a nation being born in a day. In India, in four separate instances, nearly the whole of a village has turned to God. Yesterday, Hallelujah! Yesterday, Hallelujah! Yesterday, Hallelujah! Hallelujah! Hallelujah!

Canon Farrar

— ON —

"IN DARKEST ENGLAND."

BOUND TO HELP,

— OR —

FIND A BETTER.

It was not difficult to see, as early as half-past one on Sunday afternoon last, that something was about to take place in Westminster Abbey. A friendly policeman informed the "Cry" man, who, of course, was there, that the service in the fine old pile of buildings did not commence till three o'clock, but that as Canon Farrar was announced to preach, and upon such an all-absorbing topic as General Booth's new book, people were bent upon securing a good position by being in time.

The "Cry" man at once began to scan the class of people the arrivals belonged to. The ones immediately around the door were evidently regular frequenters—their gilt-edged prayer-books betokened them habitues of the place. They were clearly afraid of losing their usual seat. Turning from the knot at the door, he marched along one of the paths, to meet a very individual specimen of the agricultural class-ses. His peculiar gait spoke undeniably of his many excursions behind a plough, and with his wife on one arm, and a little wicker basket, probably containing precious wishbone, would be consumed when a suitable seat had been secured inside, on the other, he seemed to say, "We are up from the country, bent on learning something about these General Booth and his schemes."

The decidedly nasal twang of the question, "Can you direct me to the door where I admits the public?" showed the man of the "Cry" then that American cousins were not among the uninterested ones, as, with swarthy faces, and dark, well-trimmed moustaches, of other individuals proclaimed the interest taken in social matters, and especially salvation social matters, by the natives of the Southern European countries.

Some three-quarters of an hour before the service commenced, the gigantic building was crowded, and the trumpeting multitudes only arrived at the doors to find a crowd waiting for the least opportunity of getting in. It was reported that thousands were turned away.

Canon Farrar had announced his subject, as "Social Amelioration," and at the outset stated that he alone was responsible for the opinions he proposed to express in connection with General Booth's scheme. In a very masterly and eloquent way he pictured the social evils which disfigure our civilisation, the small and ineffectual efforts being put forth for their removal, and the universal responsibility resting upon us as a nation to do our utmost to forward any scheme which appeared likely to effect an amelioration. He proceeded—

"Still, here was general Booth's scheme, which he had conceived, and which, as he had been deeply struck. He pitied the cold heart which could read and not be stirred by "Darkest England." In his best judgment he believed the scheme to be full of promise if the necessary funds were provided, and he merely mention it as his humble duty to render the undertaking such aid as he could.

Many such schemes been proposed by a member of the Church of England, he should have given it every support. He regarded the scheme as supplementary, interfering with the work of the Church, as progress for, not hindering, the Church's work. The scheme, although Christian scheme could be wholly disinited from religion, was yet most prominently a social scheme; its origin was the Salvation Army, but it was intended to promote the work of the common church.

Was the scheme to be thrown out contemptuously at once on account of prejudice, because it emanated from the Salvation Army? If any thought so, he would ask them not, but he for one declared he could not shake off prejudice. He was perhaps more widely separated from some of the methods of the Salvation Army than many of his brethren, but the work of the Army had not been unblessed, and there was much that might be learned from an organisation which in so short a time had accomplished so great a work. He dwelt upon the nature of the Salvation Army's work, the officers who were exerting themselves in connection with it, the numerous countries to which the organization had spread. The Salvation Army in its work and extent had credentials which could not be denied. Were they to stand coldly, frigidly aside because they were too refined and nice, and full of culture to touch this work of the Salvation Army with the point of the finger? He took it that he should fall grievously in his duty if prejudice or self-interest caused him to hold aloof from any movement which Christ, if He had been on earth, would not approved.

Then Dr. Farrar quoted the late Bishop Lightfoot and the late Canon Liddon in favor of the Salvation Army as an organization which had accomplished a lot of good work.

Next he asked, "How shall we receive General Booth's scheme now that it is here to our hands?" With some people the simplest way to treat any scheme for good was to leave it alone. To those who took that position with reference to General Booth's scheme he had nothing whatever to say. There was no need for saying anything whatever to the other class of people who would talk about a scheme, and having talked about it drop the matter, and think no more about it.

Another way in which General Booth's scheme might be received was that of examining it, and if convinced against it of rejecting it. That, at all events, was perfectly manly course; a clear and decided method of reception which there can be no mistaking. To those included in this class, those who would regard the scheme as migratory or pernicious, there was nothing to be said. But what about those who if not mean to help in this or any other scheme, those who left others the burden of the work, the opportunities they would want to step in when the breach had been made? There, no doubt, there would be such a class, but the last way of receiving General Booth's scheme, and the way which as he trusted it would be received, was to support it by their presence, and give to it of their means. It was an immense and far-reaching scheme, which might bring some help and hope to thousands the helpless and hopeless, made helpless and hopeless by the terrible conditions of social society, but for every one of whom Christ died.

To begin the scheme in earnest would require a sum of £100,000, but he asked—"What was that to the wealth of England—to the wealth of London?" It was a mere drop in the ocean compared to what was every year spent on drink and wasted in extravagance. There were a hundred men in England who might immortalise themselves by giving this sum, and yet not have a luxury the less. He left the response to General Booth's appeal with the public, but would it not, he asked, be a desperate shame for England if any scheme such as this, with a promise of social amelioration should fail without a trial, and like a broken promise, be lost in air?

But to this observer there was only one reply in the form of a queried objection, "The scheme might fail." Yes, it might fail; anything might fail. Was not our Saviour's loyalty and hatred meant failure, then St. Paul failed. If to die in the stern moral failure, then Luther and Wesley failed. Whitfield failed, if to die at the stake by the flames meant failure, then not the martyrs fail? Finally, if to die on the cross with the priests and the soldiers spitting out hatred, was all failure, then Jesus Christ failed. Yes, the scheme might fail; but what did this fail to do? Were there among them bold enough to look beyond the possibility of failure? Could they not see beyond, and rise above the petty jealousy and suspicion and intolerance and despair were counsellors finding multitudes to listen to them, and hopeful hearts to the nobler counsels for "Hope." Were some of them bold enough at the last moment to prefer action to inaction, and hope this to the most brilliant success in pleasing the world and making a truce with the devil? He would say he hoped that the scheme might not fail, but what each one had to consider was the question, "Shall it fail through my cowardice, through my sluggishness, my prudential cautiousness, my petty prejudices, my selfish conventionality?"

"If, on examining this plan in the light of conscience, we see in it any suggestion of the removal of the deadly evils which are at the heart of our civilization, it seems to me we are bound to do our utmost to help it forward. 'But, you say, you can in conscientiously disapprove of it?' Then we are in duty bound to propose or to forward

Something Better.

One way only is contemptible and accursed—that is, to make a mere excuse for envy, malice and depreciation.

He that heareth, let him hear; and he that forbeareth, let him forbear; but God shall be the judge between us, and His voice says in Scripture, 'If thou forbear to deliver those that are drawn unto death, and those who are ready to be slain, if thou say, Behold we knew not, doth not He that ponderetheth the heart consider it, and He that keepeth thy soul doth not He know it, and shall not He render to every man according to his works?"

The General's New Book,

"In Darkest England and the Way Out."

It is a beauty, and is having a wonderful circulation. We shall soon be able to supply this book to our officers, soldiers and friends. The time of its arrival will be made known. Send along your order at once.

London Weekly Letter.

NO. 29.

(FROM OUR INTERNATIONAL WAR CORRESPONDENT.)

My dear Comrades throughout the World:

There is so much important news to hand from Canada that I am obliged to concentrate it to a jelly, and you must, please, water it with your own reasons and imaginative ideas. This paragraph, for instance, is as condensed as Bovril or Liebeg.

The Commissioner and Staff have had some wonderful seasons of power in the East. Hurricanes of blessing. Fifty souls in the fountain. Buildings crowded. Thousands on line of marches. Enthusiasm increased, and we anticipate that hundreds of souls will have been born into the Kingdom before the Eastern tour is over.

It however causes me very deep sorrow to report to you the sudden promotion from the Canadian battlefield to glory of one of our most beloved and faithful officers—Capt. Cicero Jones. He was a tried and faithful warrior, ever ready to help others and bless those around him. We can ill spare men with such brave and noble hearts, but God does all things well. We mourn for him, but our Army is strengthened yonder. The Captain had just returned from a meeting when he was attacked with bleeding of the lungs, and in a few minutes he dropped dead on the floor. Your prayers, I am sure, will ascend to the Throne of God that the friends of our beloved comrade will be cheered and comforted by the very God of peace and of all comfort.

I must hold over the record of the wonderful advances being made in the work of Social Reform in the Dominion for another letter.

I fully expected, after the terrible persecution Major and Mrs. Oliphant and other comrades had endured so heroically for Christ's sake in Tenerife, Spanish Isles, their cup would run over with joy before they left it, and I am not at all disappointed. We have all reason to be thankful to you! victory after victory, peak towering majestically above peak in the style of Blackmore's celebrated Lorna Doone, and I take it from the end of the report of the campaign—

"Be very thankful to God for the 400 who have come forward for Salvation and Holiness. The opposition and persecution have ceased, and Christ's cause is nothing less than a gigantic proof of the genius of the Army and the splendid devotion of a noble band of Christian soldiers. The President's report has wonderfully cleared the atmosphere. The opposition has ceased, and the Army can be no doubt that we shall go faster ahead than ever. All real obstacles are now removed. The way is open. No marked advance. There is unity of spirit amongst officers and soldiers, while the fame of aggression, soldiering and soldiers making threatens to consume the whole division with Salvation. All along the line we have received messages of sympathy to the General and yourself and family. The affection has grown and strengthened. We have shed tears that the officers charged me on Friday morning to convey their expression of love and sympathy to the General and yourself and family. The affection has grown and strengthened. We have shed tears that the officers charged me on Friday morning to convey their expression of love and sympathy to the General and yourself and family. (Love and Faithfulness).

South America will be captured, but not before the bodies of some of our officers are lying peacefully under its soil. Some of them are at Buenos Ayres. Every where the cry is, "When will there be another meeting?" But Major Barritt has left Montevideo for the question, as he has turned his Headquarters into a tent, and day and night he has toiled on as a nurse amongst his wife and his band of faithful officers who are stricken with fever, small-pox, and dyphtheria. The Army has spread through the City of Buenos Aires, and many are stricken down. The noble Bonnett and Mrs. Barritt are contending "life and death—" but life for evermore" is their longings. Staff-Capt. Evans was summoned from Rio Janeiro to Major Barritt's aid to carry on business and attend to the wants of the few who had not taken the disease, and keep them isolated until the pestilence had abated. It has been a terrible strain, but up to the present time there is every hope that all our dear comrades will survive the ravages of this terrible epidemic. Major Barritt has recovered under the doctors, and has attended to his own patients, while the water treatment and packs with the greatest benefit, and has toiled unceasingly. Such heroism deserves your prayers, thanks and help in this dispensation of trial. Meanwhile the prayer of the church's litany comes home to our minds with urgency, "From plague, pestilence and famine, good Lord deliver us."

I must set off against the foregoing chaos, a brilliant sunshine picture of the opening of LeRochelle, a town in the south of France, the Bay of Biscay, in the confederation of 22,465, and in the province of Charente inferieure. The meeting was an unmarkable one from a Salvation Army of view. I hardly know how to do it. A meeting of swells—Sir Lady Swells have souls, and all souls. It was almost entirely composed of men belonging to the fashionable society at the Rochelle, headed by the leading authorities. In short, a kind of mayor-and-corporation-and-church meeting we are accustomed to England, but free from civic pride, "the pompe and vanities of this world."

The French meeting was a Salvation affair in honor of the Salvation Army advent into the town. The principal members of the Prefecture (County Council), as well as the Town Council, together with the Chief Commissioner, Police and his Secretary, All Nations, the press, attended the meeting. The end. Our Rochefort Salvationists stated that the audience was very great and with a burst of unanimity and pleasure at times if an opportunity had been given, (and we can only wonder why opportunity was not given—God sees it, but they were too well bred, of course, to take "French leave" of their own accord, and spell-bound until the end of the meeting.

What will be the outcome of this meeting, we cannot yet know. God grant that souls may be saved.

I have omitted all reference to "the last England" this week, so as not to anticipate the meeting at Exeter Hall, Fifth inst., which is to be held to congratulate the General's return. The week on the whole has been characterized by much spiritual sunshine. Our very first realisation of Heaven will be a dearer; and as relatively and collectively we ascend towards the goal, there will be some rest, as we can attend to individually we keep steering in the direction. MAJOR BAUGH REACHES MONCTON.

He Says Good-bye to Kingston Kind C.P.R. Officials—A Welcome at Moncton.

My Dear Editor:

There is an old saying which is true in some cases, but not in all in many others. That is, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," but I am sorry to say that some people do not know that you are not forgotten by God, bless you. Before I left Kingston Division I had invited them to go to a few places and say good bye, but the first, but as that was reported before I left, I will say good bye Beth and have had some good times. This time Adjt. Taylor from Training Home was expected to come to help him, and say good-bye at the station.

The next place was Picton. In many old memories crowded in upon me, I must just pass on by saying I commissioned the local officers all good-bye.

They reach Bloomfield too. God gave evidence of His presence in the council and the local officers have also.

Then at Gananoque I spent a week and rejoiced with my people.

Number of New Converts

The Captain told me they had over 100 converts since the Army came, and I report them all but two. Go ahead! Gananoque with your companions and greets all the dear people I left, I heard and felt that God will with you. Yesterday last but not least comes Kingston. There are some good people, and they have learned to love this place, so I spent Saturday and Sunday in Kingston at the place of my first work, Bandmaster and Mrs. Ingersoll, Mrs. Ward, I presented their babies to God. May God bless Kingston and Mrs. Staples my prayer. We had big crowds but not indeed to come from

The Seat of the Scourge

On Friday, the 21st, we started for home, Moncton, and I am happy to report that all our family are well and we dreaded it, yet the C.P.R. good route and the officials very civil and kind. We got home Saturday, 22nd, at 5 p.m., safe and sound. Dodge and Hunter met us at Moncton washed and refreshed, and are ready to fight against the Devil. Glad to see to be my pentecost form after closing let me say good-bye comrades Kingston Division, good-bye Dodge, Hunter, and Skinner. God bless D.O. McIntyre. Amen.

THE SALVATION DRUM.

BY R. L. VICKERS.

Hark! Hear the drum's proud tone,
Joyous in its call to war,
Swells have souls, and all souls
Have, as leaders are.

Ye champions of our God,
Have no retreat to-day!
Onward, where heroes, martyrs trod;
Marks the narrow way.

Men, ye braves, through foes and fire:
Look of Le Cloro to-day!
Cast off this saintly desire—
Bring, nor run away.

Sound! drummers, strike! roll out the sound,
Blessed of the Lord;
Where true Gospel joys are found,
Of the living Word.

Saints, thy notes are full of joy,
Tell of victories won;
Where in sin, thy souls are sunny,
Shine thy bell begun.

Soldiers tremble at thy voice,
Tells of wrath to come;
Calls the penitent rejoice,
Calls the wanderer home.

Soft thy sympathetic note
Opens the lone pilgrim's way,
Bears and Alps, and plains remote,
Bids him hasten and pray.

Glorious drum! I love thy call,
Thou hast a prophet's voice,
Saint and sinner, out and all,
Thou hid'st us all rejoice.

Faithful drum! may thy glad lea
Sound round the world in peace,
Early glad tones yet louder hum,
Thy victories never cease!

Yours to second line of third verse—
Drunk of LeCloro to-day." LeCloro was the name of a well-known drink in France in 1873. He was a wool-carder. He regarded Ex. xx. 4, 23, 24, as addressed to himself—viz.: "Thou shalt not make unto me any graven image," . . . but then he utterly overthrew them and quite knocked down their image." He did so; and when challenged confessed the deed. For this he was condemned to be burnt alive. Then off with his hand at the wrist, cut off his nose with red-hot pincers, pulled his arm with the pincers, breaking the bones in several places, cut out his heart, and consumed the remainder in a furnace. What then were seeking to exhaust their cruelty upon his body, he with holy fortitude and Christian patience exclaimed "Ps. 4—9, and with such effect that believers were encouraged, and his enemies frightened and fled. Christ was the sustaining power of this grace, which enabled him to turn his sorrowful into triumphs, and his death into victory. (See Daubigne's Reformation, Vol. 2, 569—574.

STORIES OF THE WAR.

BY RANGER.

III.

We return once more to the M— Division where the trophy of grace of whom I will speak this time was brought to N— had not always been in the school, debased condition in which the Lord found him, and a man he was proprietor of a woollen mill and moved in the milieu of respectable society. But he was one of those who "sin and sin" many thousands low, got hold of him, down, down he came, until position and prospects all were lost.

How strange it is and yet how true that, made in the image and likeness of God, man can sink down to be a little how beautiful the thought that when he sink to the lowest condition the Salvation Army God can raise man again higher than the position from which he has fallen.

Lower than the Brute;

Not to return to our hero. Drink became his master, and he was dead to heaven all that was right that one day while was drunk and not knowing what he was doing he married a low French woman. Alcohol, if you can, his feelings on finding what he had done. We know not what he felt, but we do know that from that he became a wanderer on earth, and he be crossed the continent to British Columbia. Misfortune followed him, and he returned home without money, a slave to drink, a wreck of his former self.

But the day of deliverance was at hand and D— was soon to taste the joy of liberty.

Salvation Army?" With what an amount of contempt some people can say those two words, and yet what joy the name of our God-loving organization raises to the hearts of the thousands it has been instrumental in raising from sin and degradation to respectability and manhood.

It was the Army that led our comrade to the Saviour, and this is the way it happened:

Our little warrior who had led Frank to Christ was then stationed in the town and his friends entreated D— to go to the barracks. He went. The Spirit of God took hold of him and he came to the penitent form. It is possible that liquor had that he could not believe, or that he was not willing to make a complete surrender, but certain it is that he did not get saved. Captain prayed till she could say no more, but he went away unsaved.

So Blunted His Senses

The next night found him at the penitent form more anxious than ever for God set him free. The slave of drink, who had lost all that men value most, was delivered, and was now a new creature in Jesus his Saviour.

Sweet as us if you will, treat us with contempt, if you like, but remember that thousands like D— have been brought to God by our instrumentality, and that "They that turn many unto righteousness," etc.

"THE JEW FIRST."

(Romans xi. 9).

A True Story of a S. A. Officer.

In a Western city of Ontario, a bright young Jew was attracted by an open-air meeting held by the Salvation Army. He was convicted of sin, which led to his further instruction in the Gospel, and his conversion and entire yielding to God. He now as singularly bold and fearless a Christian as formerly he was a prejudiced and bigoted Jew, and was ready to do or suffer for this. The fall rain with the severe frost penetrating the ground to such a degree that it keeps the ground cold, and the sun's heat gradually makes its way through it. The farmer does his part and God does His, and an abundant harvest is the result.

Thus it is in the spiritual harvest field also. God's husbandmen are doing their part and God is assuredly doing His, with the result the seed is taking root downward and bearing fruit up, and almost the harvest is almost at hand, when we are believing that many souls will be gathered into God's garner. Amen.

Moses Jaw is still marching on in spite of the devil and Capt. Isaacson and Lieut. Hanigan are to some cheering news, and are sure of victory.

At Brandon recently, we had a "harvest festival" when NINE souls were saved and 23 souls were blessed, and the city is alive under the command of Capt. Frith.

Rapid City under Capt. Arkell is rolling on and our numbers there are steadily swelling. The Capt. writes, "Come over to Rapid City and help us, the devil is enrolling three soldiers. I am as happy as a king, having just returned from a ten mile tramp, I was weary, but happy. Being without a Lieut. is rather lonely for flesh and blood, but God gives me power with the Spirit of God."

Lieut. Gooding, of Carberry is sick, and has been obliged to take a rest. Lieut. Hogg is holding up the colors in "C." and Our sales have increased, and we are praying and believing for a mighty victory in this rural field.

Capt. Flaws is making things hum at Portage la Prairie, but not as fast as we would, because the devil raises up difficulties to contend with, but they are only the hoarse croaking of Satan's Chief War Cry order and are in great expectation for the coming winter.

Brandon is a place where under Capt. Ivorach indicates a rise. Capt. Coate has his hands full in walking and riding in and out from Brandon to Souris, and he is live in, a state upon our charter of religious liberty which allows us all to worship God in the way we believe to be right. This Army is trying to reach those whom the church cannot reach, and to preach in the cars of the careless and carnal, the unsearchable riches of Christ, and whether we agree with their methods or not, we should all have sympathy with anything which tends to help anyone to live a noble and better life. I advise those who sit in judgment on The Salvation Army to read the 8th and 9th verses of the 8th chapter of Acts, and govern themselves accordingly. I am sir,

Yours respectfully,

DISPATCHES FROM THE WEST.

Father Sam says, "If the devil was sentenced to be hanged, he has so many friends in Winnipeg they could obtain a reprieve for him," and although Salvation Army soldiers are in the minority, still they are far from being alone.

A few days ago we had a fair sample of the weather we may expect this winter. Although the cold is severe, still the breaking his waters, the results was, he blocked up the main thoroughfare, but the worthy policeman (a Catholic) took no notice of this.

The Army stood in a side street, and half blocked the roadway. The same worthy ground for a few inches, the busy farmers put in the grain, notwithstanding the fact that the ground underneath still remained frozen to the depth of three or four feet. As the sun gets more powerful the heat penetrates the ground, and the frost is compelled. Soon row after row of grain can be seen and in a very short time harvest is at hand. Few will appreciate sufficiently how it is that vegetation goes on during the summer months with scarcely any rain, but God in His providence works for this. Persecution at Amherst, N. S.

(What Adjutant Walder Writes About It.)

On my way to Amherst, from Chatham, I was informed that Captain Alward, of Amherst, had been summoned and convicted for disorderly conduct, and was before the Stipendiary Magistrate, and this worthy upholder of justice passed a fine of $2 and costs, or spend ten days in the Cumberland County Gaol.

What mocking the word "Justis" sounds when compared with the following: Amherst is a place of a few days previous to the above charge.

A vendor of a quack medicine stood right in the main street of this same town selling his wares, the results was, he blocked up the main thoroughfare, but the worthy policeman (a Catholic) took no notice of this.

The Army stood in a side street, and half blocked the roadway. The same worthy ground for a few inches, the busy farmers put in the grain, notwithstanding the fact that the ground underneath still remained frozen to the depth of three or four feet. As the sun gets more powerful the heat penetrates the ground, and the frost is compelled. Soon row after row of grain can be seen and in a very short time harvest is at hand. Few will appreciate sufficiently how it is that vegetation goes on during the summer months with scarcely any rain, but God in His providence works for this. The fall rain with the severe frost penetrating the ground to such a degree that it keeps the ground cold, and the sun's heat gradually makes its way through it. The farmer does his part and God does His, and an abundant harvest is the result.

The authorities of this pretty town in Nova Scotia pretend to be very pious, forbidding the Salvation Army, the instrumental people of the devil attended church the next day, Sunday, to carry out the Lord's work, and to help to avenge His people for such hellish designs as these, to persecute and hinder the people of God in rescuing the lost.

A man, unknown to the officer at the time, paid his fine and set free, and so the Captain was liberated.

The following, is an article from the "Evening Press," Amherst, N. S., about the affair:

DEAR SIR.—The trial, Saturday morning last, of the Salvation Army Capt. has led many people to think that the Army is really reached the civilization of the 19th century, or is it still grouping in the ignorance of the middle ages? Well, I hope

The petty charge would never have been brought up, only for the bigotry of one of the Justices of the Peace, which is no credit on anyone concerned in it. The Pharisees of old may be dead, but it looks as if there are some Pharisaical spirits here in Amherst, and perhaps if our Lord were to come here upon earth again and speak to them as He did to the Scribes and Pharisees of Matthew, some of them would want to have Him arrested too. They would not like to stand on the streets and say, "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers how can ye escape the damnation of Hell." Men in authority are always a numerous troupe, or a circus company, or quack medicine vendor can come here and play music in broad day and sing songs on the streets, bring drunkenness and knavery in their train, and no one wants to arrest them, and no one would have paid a dollar to an obtruder the streets, or rob the people of their money, but the Army, because no unexpressed law, has a little difficulty in turning a horse on the corner where they begin to sing, and the Chief Warden of the Amherst Lodge of Gladstone, Golden Stream, Maple Grove. God is wonderfully blessing him.

Lieut. McGill has succeeded in raising the WAR CRY order at Emerson. The visiting has also been improved here. Some of the soldiers have moved away, and others are sick; but still the Lord is there and all the debts are paid. Thank God.

Capt. Rennie and Lieut. Frame are bravely holding the fort at Winnipeg. Lieut. has been sick for some time, but is getting better. Souls are being saved in nearly every meeting. Sergt. Waddell keeps the ball rolling along. Glad the spent Self-Denial week at Morden, helping Lieut. Wilton, while Capt. Harry took charge of Divisional headquarters during my absence on a tour.

Capt. Fay has been sick for some weeks. Lieut. O'Neil has been faithfully attending to him, he is getting on well, and with a little more rest he will be able to get back to the front again. Things are in good trim, and I every one is just boiling with expectation for the Commissioner's visit. Mighty times are expected. More anon.

—Major Morris.

Office Notes.

Petty Frauds. At Amherst and Sussex we two towns in the Eastern Provinces, some of our comrades have recently suffered persecution at the hands of those whose business it is to keep peace and quietness. These dignitaries should be men of grit and courage, but we leave our readers to judge as to their character, when we tell them that our comrades were brought before them and fined for disturbing, disturbing the peace, or some other petty frivolous charge. When will this kind of magistrates learn that fighting against the Army they fight against God? The more they convict the faster we march on. God who is for us is greater than all who can be against us. Cheer up, comrades. Our Captain was spat upon, mocked, persecuted, dragged to the Bar. Are we any better than He?

Xmas in Toronto. It will be seen by a reference to our back pages that the Commissioner will lead a big meeting in the Exhibition Street Barracks on Christmas night. This meeting will be preceded by another special time, "Three Hours at the Cross," led by Brigadier Margetts, commencing at 9 p.m. We feel confident that all our city soldiers and friends who can possibly get to one or both of these meetings will be richly blessed. Let us all go in for a practical merry Christmas, and as we gather at the Cross, remember its attraction, and take courage for future conflicts and warfare.

Two Dollar Guernseys for $1.75 for one month. Winter weight, and marked "Salvation Army."

ORIGINAL SALVATION SONGS.

BY C. M.

TUNE—Bright Crowns.

Come, Holy Ghost, with mighty power,
And overwhelm my heart;
Oh, fill me with Thy dying love,
And quicken every part.
(Repeat last line).

CHORUS.

Oh come, oh, come,
Reveal Thyself to me;
Just now descend,
And give me victory.

Oh, come and conquer self and pride,
And saturate me through,
That Calvary's spirit may be secu
In all I say or do.

Oh, come and give me fighting power,
And drive away all fear,
That I may boldly speak Thy Word
In every sinner's ear.

Oh, come and unbelief destroy,
With hallowed flames of fire,
And let me live to seek the lost,
And lift them from the mire.

Fighting on with the crown in view,
Fighting on, fighting on!
To the end we'll be ever true,
Fighting, fighting on!

Fighting on with our Saviour-King,
Fighting on, fighting on!
Armed with His might we are sure to win,
Fighting, fighting on!

BARRY DAVIS.

TUNE—Grace there is my every debt to pay.

On the Cross for me my Lord was slain,
For my soul's Salvation bore the pain,
In my stead the shame enduring,
Pardon for my guilt procuring;
In His body on the tree He bore
My sins, and for me was wonderfully sore.
All God's wrath He did for me endure,
To save my soul.

CHORUS.

Yes it was for me that Jesus died,
For my sins and guilt He was crucified,
For me cleansing blood flowed from His side,
For me, for me.

From His side there flowed a cleansing stream,
From sin's bondage my soul to redeem,
And by faith in Jesus receiving,
Every stain of sin removing;
I have got Salvation full and free,
For the Spirit unites me to Jesus,
And I trust the Blood of Calvary
To be kept clean.

And He fills me by His mighty power,
Keeps me by his precious Blood each hour,
All my needs in love supplying,
With His presence satisfying;
He is mine, and I am His, I know,
Cleansed from sin I'm white as the snow
Faithful I'll serve Him till I go
To see his face.

BY CAPT. J. M. R.

TUNE—"John Brown's Body."

Some people say were doing wrong
By shouting everywhere,
And as we walk about the streets
Oh, how some people stare;
But we'll stick to The Army
And never run away,
Thank God, we are nicely saved.

CHORUS.

Glory, glory, hallelujah! etc.

Some people say it's very wrong
To wear a cap or band;
The glorious cap and the cap are
The fashion of the land.
We do not mind the fashions
For we are a happy band,
Thank God we're nicely saved.

Some people when they see the drum
They try to run away,
They say it's all excitement and
The Army will decay;
But if we still keep fighting on
We're sure to win the day.
Thank God we're nicely saved.

TUNE—Marching on in the light of God.

Fighting on in the strength of God,
Fighting on, fighting on!
Winning souls through the precious blood,
Fighting, fighting on
Soon the fighting will be o'er,
Then we'll rest on Canaan's shore,
Fighting, fighting on.
The praises of our King
For Jesus is our Captain, we're His mighty
Fighting 'gainst the powers of darkness,
The victory we are sure to win—Jesus is our friend,
Fighting on with joy and gladness.
Fighting on through the scoffs and jeers,
Fighting on, fighting on!
Fighting on with our title clear,
Fighting, fighting on

Champion's Challenge to Fight.

...Stepping upon my knees I asked the ...for a few smooth stones and permis-...to go and fight old Beelzebub, in Jesus' ...then I came over to the boys and ...said, "Good day, boys! This is ...Sabbath day, and we are commanded ...to keep it holy. Come into my house and ...worship God. It will be better ...for you to be sitting out here." This ...kind of smooth stuff didn't hurt them, so ...they just laughed as much as to say, "You ...have met with your match this time. We ...are Devil's braves." As I went back to ...my house they seemed to enjoy their smile ...at my expense, and puffed out their to-...bacco smoke quite triumphantly. But ...when they saw me come back again with ...the Sword of the Spirit, and my open Bible, oh it would have given ...to anyone down with the "blues" ...to have seen and heard all those braves ...talk about, and

Run as for Dear Life

...to the woods, round to the back of the ...house, or anywhere so as to be off and out of ...my distance. Hallelujah! The field ...was left to me, and I, with my Bible, ...desecration put a stop to. They ...left, but I nabbed one man before he ...got away, and asked him why

...by this time my Gospel pitch was ...if the fire that fell on Mount Car-...had fallen into it. Then it was my ...turn to run, but I caught and con-...firmed as I rubbed it in. Oh, glory ...hallelujah! I believe I just shouted. "Vic-...tory through the blood of the Lamb!"

...a Christian," says I. "I believe ...so," said he. Then how could you ...act as you do? Is the coward by letting ...follows come and

Break God's Holy Sabbath

...here on my promises, in my presence, ...but a few yards from my door? See ...judge? This bit of ribbon tells you ...I am a Salvation Army Soldier, and ...then that, I am a loyal soldier of ...Jesus, all the time at war with evil. ...Why, man, go to your priest, and be ...forgive you. I can do as much of that ...can. But, mark me, neither I nor ...priest can change your heart. Say, ...old fellow, tell me, "Did you ever ...your priest or any other R.C. priest ...a man's heart?" "No," said he ...jolly hallelujah, I can tell you who ...is just that very thing. It's a big ...to do, I allow. Suppose that a dog ...you might forgive the dog, might ...kick him, I might, I'll admit ...the dog forgiven, but with the same ...you could not give the dog that ...shall be saved

...come between that dog and his bone, ...he will

Bite You Again Sure!

See? He has the same disposition as before. See? "Yes," says he. Now if that dog's love for bone was taken out of him he would be quite another kind of a dog, wouldn't he? "Yes," says he, "he would so."

You see that, do you? "Yes," says he, "I see that." Well, you need pardon for your sins, and you need to be saved from the sins of your past life, or you will all go to hell as sure as you are here now. Pardon is nothing to trouble about, it is more than it is for the dog. You need renewal of your nature, power to do right and to keep right. You need to have all your evil tendencies eliminated from your heart.

Now Jesus can do all this right here on this sod, and do it now, and you need it sure enough. Have confidence in His willingness, and in His ability to do it for you now, for, mind you, to-morrow may be too late.

Then I read the Scriptures out loud. By this time some of his runaway companions had ventured back from their hiding places and ventured back to see what was going to hear what sort of medicine their comrade was getting. They listened attentively. Having exhorted them to repentance and to get down on their knees and call upon God for Salvation from all sin, I said, "Boo, boys, do it this way." Then and interceded with God for these wicked men. Having realized in prayer that God's blessing was upon my service, I arose and said, "Come again, boys, and bring a lot of comrades with you, and as long as I am here, I'll meet you if I can find you." As I was saying a voice said, "Thank you," and they dispersed. Then I sang the fourth verse of my own song to the good old tune, "Annie Laurie," viz:—

I Knelt and Prayed

Whoo Jesus calls upon me
To stand and fight alone,
May I improve the honor,
Sing with triumphant tone.

CHORUS.

O His presence fills my soul,
And His glory shines around;
Who follow Jesus' footsteps,
Must walk on holy ground.

REPEAT.

O His presence fills my soul,
And His glory shines around;
I follow Jesus' footsteps,
I walk on holy ground.

ROBERT LESLIE VICKERS.

YE MUST BE CLEANSED!

DEAR EDITOR,—

In visiting yesterday, I came across an invalid girl who had written the following lines, and thought, with her permission, would send them to the WAR CRY, for fear be they would prove acceptable. The Lord continue to guide and bless you. Yours fully the Lords, Capt. FRITT.

"No One Admitted Without Being Cleansed."

While perusing an article upon the rules of hospitals, one of the number impressed me as being strikingly similar in its intent to Scripture, viz., "Before admitted, all applicants for admission must have a bath and change of garments, before entering the ward."

The Divine injunction, "Except a man be born again, (regenerated by Spirit, cleansed in the B'ood of Christ) he cannot see the Kingdom of God; effectually prevents the admission of any impurity at the "Pearly gates."

It would be singular policy, should sufferers desiring relief, refuse to comply with the preliminaries necessary for entering the hospital. Is it not still greater folly to reject God's method of cleansing the heart and preparing the soul for eternal rapture?

Reader, hast thou submitted to God's way of Salvation? Hast thou, as an utterly helpless, guilty sinner, accepted the Christ Jesus as the One Who "bore our burden," "paid thy debt," and with His precious Blood cleansed all thy guilty stains?

If so, thou knowest on the authority of the Word of God, that thy sins are forgiven, and thy name written in the Lamb's Book of life.

Oh sinner, do not refuse to comply with God's requirements. Only "Blood washed ones shall dwell in heaven." Thou would'st not perish? Oh, why not live?

Dost thou fear to plunge in the life-giving stream so freely offered to thee? No other ablution can cleanse thy guilt; no other remedy can save thy soul. Thou must have thy garments washed in the "Golden Strand," and dwell in the conjugal presence of God. MISS TAYLOR.

A DAY IN DECEMBER.

A crowded court-room. Officials, lawyers, reporters, policemen, witnesses, and curious stood around in motley confusion. In the prisoner's dock is the centre of interest. Men and women, grey-haired, withered, sunken, and degraded, interspersed with others upon whom was stamped the bloom of youth, and a certain dazzled, shame-faced, soiled innocence. All seemed as one together waiting their turn of summary judgment.

The Judge was a kind-looking, generous man of military bearing and dignity. He plied his quill as one well accustomed to dispatch unpleasant duty speedily.

One after another stood up and heard their accusation read out, and about an equal number pleaded guilty or not guilty. As case after case were tried, we found ourselves lost in the study of human character as depicted upon their faces and bearing.

Of "old hands" there were not a few certainly whose hardened look and brazen defiance told plainly that they were not accustomed to their position. Men upon whom the lines of sin were deeply set, and on whom the marks of drink appeared to be there more because they couldn't help it than by absolute choice. Some of these were "sent down" to their cells more on the statement of their previous hard and heedless character than from the evidence which could be produced of present guilt.

Deep sunk in the mire how could they help themselves? The descent was too rapid and too slippery to be remounted, and therefore once down there they must stay and wallow some months, and as yet unknown, power would lift them out of the pit.

But others there were, who stood there for "first offences," and for them we could but thank God for the pity and compassionate sympathy of the Judge before them.

"You can go, but don't walk in such slippery places," said he to one young man, respectably dressed, who was arraigned for his first fall through drunkenness.

"Better for you" was the advice to a young domestic servant who for the love of vanity had stolen money and expended it on dress, "had you never left your father's homestead. Have you no pay-cards now? No! I will not send you down to prison. I will send you to them on remanded sentence. Be off!"

One very old woman stood there, smiling as though perpetly at ease. Her charge was drunkenness; she was well known at the dock.

"Eh, about time you went down for the winter," quoth the learned magistrate, "or we shall find you dead in the streets one of these days."

"Ah! no Sire! not out the winthur shure! Just for a leetle while."

But the Judge knew best and pronounced "five months' sentence."

"For safe keeping" was our inward reflection. Was this what the Master meant when He said "Feed My sheep?"

Again an old man was brought forward suspected under the arm, and he looked crippled was he. Alas! is it true? Is his place also in the prisoner's dock? But it was only too evident, and sentence was given, he hobbled down to the cells with the aid of his two friends.

Enough. Our hearts are sick; we turn from the scene with the query ever before us increasing in magnitude and more pressing than ever before, what can we do for fallen humanity?

But our work was not finished. Introduced by the Stafficsecretary, we met the matron's room, and again are face-to-face with the maidservant before mentioned. Her case was given, and sentence given. She is sullen, dogged and defiant in manner.

She doesn't wish to go home. She is ashamed, but not sorry. The sense of disgrace she has occasioned them, but she is in no way penitent or contrite, all she is thinking of now, is how she can escape the authorities and make it impossible for them to find her parents in order that she may return to her haunts of vice. There is a man in the shadowy background who has taken a great hold of her, the prison room. We offer her a chance of Rescue through our homes, but she is in no way inclined and we are forced to leave her to her fate.

It is evening, and although our well filled day has nearly run its close we have another project in view. It is a visit to the Salvation Army Rescue Home. The day was cold and uninviting, but our purpose is steadfast. The electric car makes short work of the distance, and we soon find ourselves in the well-warmed and well-appointed building.

Neatly furnished with mattress, pillow, blankets, and sheets, occupy the whole side of the left wing, whilst on the right are sleeping, and well-lighted dining and sitting rooms, with kitchen in the rear.

The men, (of whom there are thirteen at the hour we write) are evidently waiting an arrival. The Captain was expected to hold a meeting, but the Lord seems to disappoint us. We did not expect the disappointment, but having laid aside our furs we fall in with Divine arrangements and proceed to heartily sing one of the favorite songs of the Home—

"There is a better world they say,
Oh, so bright!
Where sin and woe are done away,
Oh, so bright!"

Singularly appropriate for our brothers here, is our reflection. What do they need more than to know that their sins and woe can be done away?

A blessed little interval of prayer from some of our comrades followed. How they pleaded that the great grace which has been manifested in saving them may be made known to their brothers who are yet unsaved!

Another song and some of the brightest and most definite testimonies we have listened to during our ten years' warfare followed without any of that delay or hesitation that drags the life and enjoyment from testimony meetings. They told in simple language how deep sunk they had been in drink and law-breaking, how they had spent every cent and wandered from land, home, and friends, coming finally to the cold chilly influences of prison walls and iron bolts, and then, when with not a friend nor ray of hope before them, the Salvation Army had met them, and the Red Maria had brought them to this place, to this home that ever was opened, and they "lost thing that ever was thought of." Here they had decided to lead new lives, and they had actually begun by conforming their sins, seeking forgiveness, and yielding their hearts to the loving Saviour of the lost.

One and all agreed that the Prison Gate Home should be the subject of their sterner prayers, and that it had provided the means of Salvation to them.

"If people don't believe in it tell 'em to come and see it for themselves," was the opinion of all voiced by one man.

Thank God, we had no difficulty in believing in it before we came, but we seem less have we now, having heard those testimonies and prayers from lips more used to oaths and cursing than to praying and praising, and we went away feeling that the evening's sight was a good sequel to the morning adventures.

Prison Gate Work

We are making very rapid strides in this branch of our work; which, though yet is very youthful, it speaks to the whole Canadian world, yea, the world at large, the possibilities of accomplishing much in little time. At present everything we have to say is though our expectations are not surpassed; for according to your faith so shall you receive.

Magnum Bonum,

During the past week three more ex-convicts have been received into our Eglinton Home; one of the trio wandered from the Yorkville Barracks on Saturday evening, and after the memorial service of the late "Happy Bill Cooper's" was over, he came to the mourner's bench, and professed his sins forgiven; this alone ought to cheer everybody and give them courage to push the Social Reform Branch. We are praying and believing for the conversion of them all.

I am happy to state this week that we are no longer confined to reporting one home in the Dominion, but arrangements are now completed for the opening of two more, viz. Kingston and Hamilton; the former we propose opening on Dec. 9th and the latter on Dec. 11th, D. V.

The governors of the jails in these places have promised their hearty co-operation in this grand work; Mr. Colebrook, governor of Kingston jail, gave us a handsome donation to encourage our efforts in reforming those who have been committed to his calaaintous.

The tonic of conversation in these cities is Social Reform; and I remarked it could not be a better one; further, if all who talk

Would pray and pay

the work would roll on still faster and faster. Mr. W. C. Barnes of Hamilton, who was the Hon. Sec. of the R. H. Home in Toronto (which recently turned the home over to us) is proving himself a strong outside prop; we hope to soon make him an inside stay. I pray he may live long to help much and save many.

Ensign Neal deserves much credit for the noble way she is taking hold of the work in Kingston. She is financing at present, and is getting well into the hearts and pockets of the citizens. She is always voted to her work and is bent on success. Divine energy will conquer.

Trusting later on to give you a more lengthy report of the work in these places. In conclusion, I am having perfect and continual victory.

Affectionately yours,
J. ALBERT BOLTON

Rescue Work

The West Booming. Nearly a year ago Geneva had made up its mind to expel us from the town, and surrounded the devoted little garrison and cadets for four days. It was a real warfare. A mob of four hundred men besieged the garrison house with sticks, crow-bars, and stones, demolishing windows and destruction and bombardment went on without us to play the coward by letting the Blight glad and this week to be able to present our readers with a report of the Commissioner's meetings at Winnipeg and next week we hope to be able to give more details about his meetings in British Columbia. Several souls got saved at Winnipeg, and we feel confident that whole North-West will be round many souls brought to God. Does we shall be able to give more detailed accounts of our next or an early issue. We are expecting big times in Ontario as the Commissioner visits the various centres of the great Social Reform Tour. May God bless the Commissioner and his Charge, till every soldier shall be saved.

Find Your Report

AND READ IT.

THREE men out for Salvation during the last week-end at HALIFAX I. Great crowds now held, and boiling-over times, and everyone went in for souls, with the above result. Capt. and Mrs. Leavitt are rejoicing and victorious.

TWO sisters got saved at POGWASH at the Lieut.'s farewell meeting.

Capt. Williams writes that at St. JOHNS (I., Nfld., they are having good times. Scribe Capt. Sides led the meetings there on a recent Sunday, and SIX souls cried for pardon in the night meeting. Hallelujah.

Another thriving corps in the Toronto Division is DOVERCOURT. Capt. Houston has hold of the reins here. One dear lad who was sleeping was set on solid footing again. S.Capt. Bennett visited this Corps, notwithstanding the truth being plainly laid before the people, that indifferent spirit kept them from yielding.

WEST TORONTO is a proper Blood and Fire corps and the soldiers know how to fight. Cad. Hodgson reports a good week of victory. Staff-Capt. Bennett the Junions' warrior, paid them a visit. TWO have found pardon this week.

THE TRANSFORD report has the right ring about it this week. The soldiers are being more united. ONE Sister sought and found pardon, and now marches and testifies for the Master, and another dear LAD who had wandered from the fold returned. D. O. Sharp, assisted by Scribe Pearl and the Ingersoll brass band, paid the Transford Corps a visit. The last place was all alive, and ONE backslider returned. Hallelujah.

THE corps still progresses favorably in RENFREW. Since we last heard from this corps ONE wanderer has returned. This makes Capt. Causey's heart feel glad, for the crowds get small in the winter on account of the people going to work in the bush.

Lieut. Anderson, in reporting for Capt. Cass of FENELON FALLS, says things are brightening up a little since the Capt. has taken hold the reins. He writes "When visiting, the devil in the shape of a woman went for me heavy, and said when I wanted more to come back."

AT BURIN, Nfld., the devil has a hard time of it. While the officers were away to council at St. Johns, EIGHT of his followers were compelled to leave his ranks and follow Christ, and since the officers returned, EIGHT more. Capt. Bowering says they have good crowds, notwithstanding the fact that the people have to come to the meetings in boats.

As powwows are now holding an open-air at Sussex, N. B., a dear minister called and listened very attentively to the different sermons. As he was leaving he sent his little boy to the office with a dollar. God bless him. Capt. McDonald has received farewell orders, and leaves with the glorious assurance that God has owned and blessed his labors. Souls have been saved, a new barracks built, and where only two and three used to be on the march, now from thirteen to fifteen willingly march the street for Jesus.

They are having good meetings at NIAGARA FALLS. The crowds and collections are much better. Capt. and Mrs. Ireland rejoice in announcing ONE soul won over from the enemy's ranks.

The soldiers at CHESLEY are taking a look at themselves in the light of heaven, and three have stepped up to the mercy seat where God wanted them. Capt. Wiggins is rejoicing over TWO souls who have been saved.

ONE soul saved at PERTH on a recent Sunday night. Capt. Payne reports meetings on Sunday and blessing all day with the above result at night.

[That's right Capt. despite not the day of small things. One soul is of infinite value in God's sight. Press on for more. God bless you.]—Ed.

ATHENS is another hard shop in the Montreal Division, yet nevertheless for the hardness God is blessing our comrades there. Capt. Todd was with them a few days and God gave them good times. Lieut. Finlayo is determined to hold up the standard of holiness and show the people their sins.

Capt. and Mrs. Boxall, who have been laboring for some months in STROUD farewell for another corner of the Lord's vineyard. The Lord has wonderfully blessed their labors while there. The last week in Stroud God brought THREE backsliders into the fold. One convert, who has been saved about six weeks, has gained eleven pounds since he gave up tobacco.

MONTREAL II. Capt. McGinness sends an extended report which we have boiled down. The Lord has been giving them victory and their numbers are steadily increasing. Glory to God.

HAMILTON is another corps in the corner of God's great big harvest field. Open conviction is felt in the meetings and Captain Cockerill is confident of victory.

D. O. and Mrs. Southall, on a recent week-end visited PARKDALE and had wonderful meetings and ONE soul professed to find Salvation. Capt. Fisher has things well in hand there.

In the far West the old Salvation chariot is steadily rolling on. At RAPID CITY Capt. Arbuckle has eight hold of God. The people helped grand with Self-denial. The Captain had a run across the prairie to Neepawa and had a good time.

Away down East the war is being steadily waged and the Lord's hosts are surely gaining on the enemy. At SPRING HILL MINES Brigadier Jacobs and Staff-Capt. Beatty lately assisted in laying the corner stone of a new barracks. This will mean, of course, "No quarter for the devil in this place." Yes and Brother, the Lord has been holding the fort here for some time, have received orders for another part of the field. During their stay they saw something like 150 souls crying for mercy and forty soldiers added to the roll. In their farewell meeting five souls sought for pardon. Since we last heard from them THIRTEEN souls have been saved. Hallelujah!

Capt. McDonald, of SUSSEX, N.B., writes. "A short time ago this corps was expected to branch its last. The devil had its fold and sod all ready for the funeral, but he got left. A good dose of the "Spirit" gave a renewed vigor and energy. Now the bloom of health is on its cheek, which is a wonder to many. Adj. and Mrs. Wallace were with us last Saturday evening. TWO souls at the Cross. Thursday night our Hindoo Demonstration drew a large crowd. The music was good. Captain Josie Halfyard and Lieut. Harry Polly, the "Little Boy" lecturer, were present. Six souls at the Cross. Sunday was the last place was all alive, and ONE backslider returned. Hallelujah.

Although the bad weather and lots of counter attractions have set in, the people from our barracks in BELLEVILLE still Capt. Armstrong rejoices for the way God has been helping them. Souls are precious soul saved since you last heard from this corps.

Lieut. Carey has had the experience of being brought up before the police magistrate in SPRING HILL MINES. N.S. God gave him a mighty victory. Hallelujah.

AT BRIGHTON, ONT., SID. work was taken up by all. Old and young helped wonderfully. God bless them all.

Lieut. Ivey of DUNDAS reports good times. Two decisions last week and the big crowds come around the ring on the Market Square. Many souls are in trouble and despair because they will not give up their sin.

TORONTO V. (Riverside) is at present ably commanded by Capt. M. Elliott. In reporting about the Sunday's fighting and is it any wonder, for God's children are being awakened, and going in with all their hearts, and souls and strength, TWO more won for the Kingdom at this corps.

THREE souls saved here at the previous report.

Capt. Dick Gage tells God that the old cause is still barrelling along in BRUSSELS. Sunday's meetings were good with a good devil-driving time. The power of God was felt all day. FIVE souls was the result of the day's engagements.

Wonderful times at PURSCOTT. Thus starts the writer of the report from this corporal who is now commanding Mrs. Capt. Armstrong. SEVEN souls have plunged into the fountain, where God saved them. Six souls at the Cross. Hallelujah! God is doing to raise up some Blood-and-Fire warriors in this town. The Capt. and his lassie are doing their best. Staff-Capt. Coombs, present and strong in God. He advice to the soldiers is to fight hard and never give in.

Capt. Williams just sends a few words from MARKHAM rejoicing over ONE soul saved on Sunday night.

Cadet McLeod in reporting for Capt. Johnson Gale, of the TIMES corps, says, "Great encouragement. Attended forty local officers and enrolment of twenty-two soldiers on Thursday evening. This will be a great help to us. God set his seal upon the week's work by saving SEVENTEEN souls."

Capt. M. Cowan has just farewelled from WALLACEBURG and enough inside to work for a part of the time still she feels she has done what she could. The path has been very dark but God has given them victory. D.O. McIntyre and Scribe paid them a visit, when God wonderfully blessed the meetings.

The right royal welcome the COATICOOKE soldiers led on by the Lieutenant, gave to Capt. Flossie Johnson on her arrival to take charge of this her first western station, made her feel quite at home. She buckled on the armour at once, and related in the first Sunday's fighting a deal of the corps she got to work with collecting books and letter of introduction, and on the Friday on making up the books, she was enabled to rejoice over the debt being cleared up. She says, "Having got the weight removed from me, wheels are so confident the old chariot will roll on faster than ever."

Capt. Warder and his BRAMPTON braves are still getting victory through the Blood. They have had wonderful times all the week.

[Now Captain, send along some interesting items.]—Ed.

AT ESSEX CENTRE recently, two brothers got big victories, when they let the Lord have their way with them. They got about big happy. It appears that a quarreling devil is creeping round this locality. Comrades, look out for him. ONE backslider has returned, so writes Capt. Wale.

Capt. Turner, of GALT, gives an outline of the result of Self-Denial week, which was a success in last week's Cat, under Self-Denial Tit Bits. They evidently had a good time, and he heartily thanks all the people who gave so liberally to help to get the world converted to God.

TRENTON did well during S.D. week. The Capt. denied himself of sleep, walking for the proceeds, preached Self-Denial, Death's life and death, thus getting richly blessed. FIVE souls fell at Jesus' feet on the Tuesday night in the meeting, and the Army opened fire. Slater Arthurs visited the corps on a recent Sunday, on her way to Manitoba. TWO souls came to rose up out of their seats and came to Jesus. It was a soul-stirring time all round.

BARRIE is booming, ranks are increasing, and Captain Wellwood reports bodies as well as souls. Converts take the place of backsliders. The Capt. feels very encouraging. Since the comrades got their love letter from the Commissioner, the soldiers have come out more and more. Since last report, NINE have got properly saved, and have fallen right into line.

The Saturday night meetings

IMPORTANCE OF TIME.

BY J. M'KEAN.

Haste, haste, haste, the night comes on
And many a bright hour goes.
The storm is gathering fast and quick
And thou art far from Father's home.

Away from home thy footsteps strayed,
Christ, the Life, the Light, the Way;
Direct your footsteps this way
And Hy your course will guide
Safe to the other side.

Awake, awake! Why dost thou sleep,
And death is on thy track;
Arise and shine with all thy might
For Christ will give you light.

No longer linger in the plain,
But to the mountain fly;
Look not behind, make no delay,
Christ bids you take this way.

Memorial Services of Major Cooper.

Stirring Testimonies—Numbers of Souls Saved—Broken Vows Renewed—A Wave of Salvation in Many of the City Corps.

"Oh, pour it in my soul." Again and again we sang this stirring chorus in the little room attached to the platform at Lippincott Street. The meeting was to be a memorial one in connection with the life and death of dear Major Cooper (Happy Bill). Mrs. Read and myself had been told off to lead it, and right glad we were of the chance presented in bringing such a bigeeowd as had gathered, face to face with the things of eternity. I felt confident of victory from the very moment I stepped into that little prayer-room. What a hallowed spot it is! The Lancers know how to pray. The weight of souls was upon us, and together we wrestled with God and the result was, His Spirit came upon us, fitting us for the work of the meeting.

Mysteriously God worked, but oh, with what success!

"There is a better world, they say,"

was sung with much vigor and earnestness. The old song was much an appropriate one, and the fact that FIVE precious souls knelt at the Cross is enough proof of God's divine presence. The meeting was opened for all who wished to say anything in reference to blessings received through "Happy Bill's" life and words. One after another the comrades told of the great benefit derived by them from the pronounced Major's life. One woman had been converted four years ago through what Bill said in a meeting. Two of the penitents wept out their sorrow bitterly at the form, told of the time they promised the Major to serve God. They had run well for a time, but failed. Past memories had been awakened. The Spirit of God had moved upon them through what had been said in reference to Happy Bill that night, and together they asked for mercy and started out to serve God and the Major.

God laid hold of Mrs. Read as she left the platform and walked up and down the aisle, singing sinners to repent. She had seen a great deal of Major Cooper's past warfare. She had fought under his command, and as she spoke of his good works following him, and prayed that the awful reality of death, with all its unspeakable misery, might be rested upon that big crowd of people, the Editor gripped things by reading: "Behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me" etc. He told of the company of harlots, idolaters, murderers, etc., to be found outside the gates of Heaven, showing the sinners that if they died in their sins these wretches would be their everlasting companions. Another, and another, and another, came to the Cross, till there were five standing for mercy, which, we believe, they obtained. Blessed be God for ever. One of these converts was a dear Jesus boy. He flowed down his cheeks as he told of his joy in God and salvation. May God mightily bless the braves of Lippincott. Let us pray very. It does one good to be among them. They seem to put their arms round a fellow and help him on in the leadership of the meeting. Capt. J. Jones is fighting bravely. Adjutant Jones was unable to be present, being sick. Pray for Jim. We enjoyed the meeting, and we feel confident that the ministerial spirit of Happy Bill hovered round. The joy-bells of heaven rang over the five prodigals who returned to the fold. —R.

At Old No. 1.

"Well, Capt. Mutton, what kind of a time did you have at Richmond Street in connection with Major Cooper's memorial service?" queried I, as he sat in my office. "Well, we had a grand time right through the day, and again at night. The barracks was well filled. One brother, with tears in his eyes filled with tears, told of the blessing he had received through Happy Bill's life. Best of all THREE souls plunged into the fountain. Many of our dear comrades of the Old Guard rejoiced happy memories in connection with the Major's thrilling words of warning and entreaty to the sinner.

I peeped into Arthur street barracks on my way home from Lippincott and there behold a sight which did my soul good. FIVE precious souls were kneeling at the Cross, so that evidently the warm of God's saving power had been felt in this corner of the battle field. Oh! how Happy Bill would have jumped for joy at the sight. Capt. Wakefield and her gallant little band were praying and singing, helping these souls out into liberty.

Staff-Capt. Bolton's Report.

Inderstand from Staff-Capt. Bolton of the Social Reform Branch, that a poor ex-convict who had entered the Home a few days before, wandered down to the Yorkville barracks the night of the memorial service and at the close found mercy. What a blessed Christ have we! A visitor sends us the following account of the Yorkville meeting:

"The night meeting was the memorial service of our departed comrade, Major Cooper, Staff-Capt. Bolton being the leader. God was there in power. Seated in the audience was Staff-Capt. Bolton, who was invited to the platform, and he soon knew Major Cooper for some years, spoke with great power of his good and holy life and triumphant death. Ensign Matthews spoke plainly to the unsaved. Then Staff-Capt. Banks (late in the net, and with great earnestness pleaded with the unsaved to come to God. Come along! come along! rang through the hall again and again. Presently a cry came in the way, here they come! One after another came out until SEVEN souls came kneeling at His bleeding feet. My, what a blessed time of rejoicing. Then came the testimonies each comrade saying, 'Let's have a wave offering,' sang out somebody, and then sent with a shout of praise, crowned Him Lord of all. My, my Yorkville has been a hard nut, but "Dot" has the crackers to crack it."

At Riverside, Staff-Capt. and Mrs. Fisher led the meeting, and the Captain reports as follows:—

A Death And Life Meeting.

The memorial meeting at Riverside corps was a success.

The Old Guard judges of success, not by the crowds, enthusiasm or big collections, but by the visible results of the efforts of the Lord's people, and His co-workers—saved and sanctified men and women.

Thank God for what we saw and heard on Sunday night. Major Cooper talked a little about glorified "Happy Bill." Some good testimonies were given to blessings received through our comrade's devoted life, and it was good to see such a number stand up and by so doing testify that they were going to see him on the other side.

The soldiers went in well and God was very manifestly present to save. Mrs. Fisher led the meeting going with, "There is a better world they say," and went well—also reading the lesson, when good attention was given, and then Ensign Wood sang a solo, and in the wind-up we had a good prayer meeting, properly brought out. After a long urging THREE wanderers came home to God and we sang with heart and voice, "Home once more." One dear fellow, who had been a slave to drink, wept bitterly before the Lord, and we do pray that he may keep on trusting. Another brother handed out a drinking idol in the shape of a bunny flask, which was duly confiscated by the Sergt.-Major.

Just as we were closing up a lad came out who had backslidden, owing to disobedience to God, but believes he has gone right.

We were pleased to hear in the little hallelujah, or wind-up, a brother testify, who had come from another meeting, where he had just been saved. Thank God he took the chance for returning thanks. Glory be to Jesus.—F.

Up to the present time we have not received all the information about the meetings held at the Queen City corps, in Toronto, but from the above we are confident that the Spirit of God was poured out in a special manner, and many were gathered to take part in Happy Bill's memorial meeting. To God be all the glory. His works do follow him, and we follow him as long as the Army lives. The news of Happy Bill Cooper," will be handed down from one to another, for the memory of the just is blessed.—R.

The echoes of General Booth's book have sounded beyond the shores of England, as will be seen by the following letter:

The Empress Frederick's Palace, Berlin, Nov. 1, 1890.—Count Seckendorff presents his compliments to Mr. W. T. Stead, and begs leave to acknowledge, by command of her Majesty the Empress Frederick, the receipt of General Booth's book, in the Darkest England, and The Way Out." Count Seckendorff is commanded to say that her Majesty will read this book with special interest."—Daily Chronicle.

Big Meetings in the Imperial City.

The Members for Ottawa Arrive All Safe.

For six years the grand old Army church has been rolling on in Ottawa, being the means of much blessing to many Christians, and the salvation of hundreds of precious souls, and many have died in the faith that these God-sent men and women have came to the city.

Saturday ushered in a new era in the history of this God-inspired organization in this city. The changes, which many of the Old Guard readers are well acquainted with, took place on that important day. The trains from the east and west viz. Brigadier and Mrs. Glover, A. D. C. Archibald, Captain Kingsley, Secretary, Capt. Peck, Spiritual Special, Capt. and Mrs. Connett, who took charge of the new Men's Training Garrison, Adjt. and Mrs. Morrison, from new D. O. arrived on the previous week, and had the encouragement for the big reception meetings well under way.

Brought in the New Members,

All day Sunday the red-hot shot was poured into the enemy's ranks, and we feel confident it will work was done in the hearts of the people. At the holiness meeting the Brigadier read several searching portions of God's word, showing the consecration, bringing the test upon the Word of God. A large crowed came together in the afternoon. The testimonies were short and pithy, and much blessing was experienced through them to every blood-washed heart. At the evening meeting the large congregation were brought judgment and salvation, which must have its foundation deep on their hearts. Capt. Connett led off the testimony meeting, the A.D.C. read the lesson, followed by some powerful exhortations from Capts. Freer and Mrs. Connett. Lieut. Leonard followed up the fight with good testimony, calling come burning truths which were felt by many. Brigadier Glover addler pleaded with the people to forsake sin and give their hearts to God, which was their reasonable service.

We closed the day's fighting full of faith for the Brigadier, for the work, and the salvation of many souls.

Capt. and Mrs. Connett take charge of this corps, and every soldier and friend is going to pray God to roll on the chariot chariot faster than ever in Ottawa. That God will give the new Brigadier, his staff and command, the new D.O., and officers, is the prayer of every comrade of the old Ottawa Royals. ARCHIE.

Adjutant Collier's Meanderings

AROUND THE HALIFAX DIVISION.

After spending a few days in the office, we started for a trip around the Division, our first stopping place was TRURO, where Capt. Knight and Lieut. Davis have been labouring for some time and seeing some souls saved. We had a nice time and commissioned two Sergeants and a Secretary.

Throw was our next appointment, where we found Capt. Pitman and Lieut. Edwards under orders to farewell. They have worked well in hand here, a nice spiritual feeling is in the corps, and they have also got the barracks in good shape. Of course we failed, but Picton people don't mind that much, and we had a fine meeting. One man professed to get saved. He is an old hand, but God is able to save him. A dear WOMAN who held up her hand, has since got saved. Brother and Sister Stanton are in good kind, and supplied the wants of the temporal kind.

WESTVILLE comes next on the list, where Capt. Perrine (Irish Tom) and his hallelujah wife have been supplying for a few weeks. After doing a little business in the shape of a Self-Denial we proceed to the barracks for the battle. We had a nice time in the open-air and a small company inside. We felt satisfied that God is with the people here, but had to come away without seeing souls saved. God bless Brother and Sister Purvis, who are similarly exercised to our bodily needs.

After a short ride on the train we arrived at NEW GLASGOW. Capt. Hartrey met us at the station and soon had us seated in her comfortable quarters. We spent one Saturday night, but we marched and held a Self-Denial, and we had a nice meeting inside. Sunday we had a good field day, from knee-drill till night; the soldiers were out, and definite testimonies to the blessing of full salvation in the Holiness meeting, and a good time was enjoyed. The brass band came in in the afternoon, and they are getting along well under the leadership of Bro. Burdett. A good crowd attended the meetings both afternoon and night; ONE man volunteered for salvation. Monday afternoon we had a nice little council with the officers from the surrounding stations, and a jubilee at night. Capt. Harrington and Lieut. Tuttle have things well in hand, and Capt. says they are going to have a smash soon. Tuesday the Sergt.-Major came down to New Glasgow with their Self-Denial, and we had a good time at LAKTON. It still continues to be a marshal out and lead a good fight on our side. We trust and believe souls saved, the people how much more they would did not get, had some nice meetings. N. G. Band and a dust from the Lieut. from the same corps, looks as if one anyone decide for God. Capt. Hartrey received their orders for Cow Bay, and we miss them. The Mayor of the town spoke well here, and looked after the Yours for victory. TOM FOX.

AUXILIARY NOTES.

Self reigns supreme in so many hearts the royal law, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself" is totally ignored.

Occupied either by business cares, engrossed in the pursuit of pleasure, the claims of others, their joys or their sorrows, many weary ones with whom we come in contact every day, are not cheered by brightsmiles, or comforting words. In their own joys they forget the command, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ" forgotten.

But what a change when the Saviour lives has been handed over to Christ, when we have realized the truth and power of these words, "He must increase, I must decrease." We will be rooted and grounded in the love of Christ, self will disappear, and our sin is not to please ourselves, but to please Christ. His example, "To go about doing good," helping the weak, cheering the sad, giving the fainting, the gospel word, in short, being "all things to all men."

One of the divisional officers has sent the following encouraging letter:—

"Could you arrange to have the Auxiliary members in my division pray for us this branch of the work push, and see what can be done in this direction this coming winter." God bless the Major, we are in urgent need of a hearted Auxiliary. Many have been in the light work." Although your own work may be, I entreat your heart, yet as comrades, will you "love your neighbour as yourself," and, profiting by Major Cooper's example unite with him in this "Auxiliary push."

So little is known of this branch of the work—of its aim and object.

You can "bear our burden," by saying to how the Auxiliary League helps on "Children's Shelters," "Rescue and Help Gate Homes," and showing our friends that, by becoming Auxiliaries, they will have a real share in rescuing souls, that, though now deep sunk in sin, they yet shine with a lustre far surpassing yet shine with a lustre far surpassing the sun in glory.

"The Auxiliary League is composed of persons, who, without actually engaging in the work of the Salvation Army, are sufficiently in sympathy with its great work to be willing to assist in rescuing the fallen, in a word, saving souls, and so to give their prayers, influence, money. Persons who are willing to subscribing or collecting Auxiliaries." This is a new departure in our Canadian League work, although tried with success in other lands. We have been at it for some time. We have been at it for some time. We have been at it for some time

Australian Rescue Work

There was no Salvation Army then to pick you up and you had to do something to get your victuals. What would I have done if Jack Monty had not taken me by the hand? I will not say that I am religious, but it has led me to lead an honest life. I do not profess to be saved, but I am trying to do what is right. I have never seen the inside of a workhouse since I was met by the P. G. B. men. I would not disgrace the Army by going back to the life I once lived. I have never had a desire to drink since, not even when my wife sold out my home. She is a "gun." (thief) and if I had not taken the wrong woman I might have been saved."

And so though "Mandy" makes no profession he works honestly for his living. No unsuspecting capitalist is held up and compelled to disgorge his wealth and the police force have thus lost a troublesome customer.

I copy this verbatim from my notes:

"A man sixty-five last May; born in London. Ran away from trade at 15 years of age; picked up the swell mob pickpockets of London, became a professional P. P. and received various imprisonments amounting in all to four years. Last sentence ten years to Tasmania for picking a gent's pocket in Fleet street, London, £128 one haul.

After seven years Tasmania, stowed away and came to Melbourne, went on to Sydney. Two days after landing he picked a gent's pocket coming out of a bank of £143. He was a contractor. At Wagga Wagga he got a cash box out of a store with £600. Taken up in New South Wales for jewellery robbery amounting to £1200. Acquitted. Last sentence in Castlemaine, twelve months for picking a woman's pocket in the street. 120-0 and scripts. Went to Maldon to an Army meeting, intending to pick some one's pocket. Convicted; went to penitent form; converted; went into P. G. B. House. In ten months settled down and married."

Jimmy is a diminutive specimen, and looks for all the world like a professional P. P. When testifying two fingers of his right hand mechanically stretch out so accustomed that he seem to let these nimble members glide into a full pocket and extract the booty. Cases of this description could be enumerated until further orders. Others of equal interest are being saved at this present time. Such is the work of the P. G. B.

Soon after the opening of the first P. G. B. House the great need for a Home for the females was felt. Indeed the women themselves met former mate companions on the street, as they went about selling "War Crys," after they had been saved, and wanted to know why the Army did not open a house. They said they would gladly leave their lives of sin if they only had some place to go to, and so at last the Army opened the first Rescue Home for Women. It was but a small place, much out of the way and very inconvenient, and yet it was soon filled—even crowded out. The poor girls anxious to get away from the bitter thraldom which held them, came imploring to be taken in, and yet owing to the scarcity of room, many of these had to be refused admittance. This place soon became useless, the accommodation was too limited, and in addition our officers were painfully aware of the fact that it was not desirable to let the younger girls associate with those who had been living a life of crime for years.

A splendid building suitable in every way was secured and in a short time the Rescue Work obtained such a foothold and gained such a sympathies of the people that it has never looked back since. Instead of one small House, we have to-day Homes in Geelong, Adelaide, Brisbane, Sydney and Melbourne, and I venture to predict, that at the rate we are travelling, we shall soon have them in every city and town of any size in Australia. Many poor souls wrecked on the beach of life have found a harbor of refuge within the walls of these Rescue Homes. To tell what really has been accomplished would require a more able pen than mine. Still the facts of one case might be inserted here with benefit.

One would scarcely think to look at the bright happy face beneath the Army bonnet, and the light, active figure with Army garb and Rescue sash that Louisa had ever seen anything but a Salvationist. Not so. Until recently the seamy side of life has been her portion. The daughter of an English naval officer, unfortunately she learned to drink as a child and grew up with a curse upon her. Even while at school she would steal money from her parents, and stopping at a friend's house would procure liquor, consuming oftimes as much as a pint of ale and six pennyworth of gin on her way to the academy.

In utter despair her friends sent her to Australia, handing her over to the care of a ministerial friend. They forgot, however, to mention that she was an inebriate, with the result that the friends of the girl soon discovered this for themselves. She was found in her room one morning helplessly drunk. Her friends were shocked, and after advising her to sign the pledge, turned her into the street.

Getting into and out of situation after situation, she gradually gravitated towards Melbourne. After she had pawned her jewelery and squandered the proceeds for drink, she awoke to the fact that she was homeless, friendless and penniless, with the exception of a threepenny bit. Goaded to madness at the thought of her shame, crushed and sick at heart, she made up her mind to spend her last piece of money for drink, and then, like many others, leap over the parapet, into the dark dirty waters, that had saved so many similar wrecks. But now God's opportunity comes. She is met by a Hallelujah lassie taken to the Rescue Home, gets saved, becomes an officer, and is now doing her utmost to save others.

With such tales we could fill a "War Cry," but neither your space nor my time will suffice for a further enlargement.

In addition to the various homes, we have also a splendid Enquiry Department in connection with our Rescue Branch, and scores of lost relatives, have been restored to their sorrowing friends. Out of a batch of enquiries, which will give you the hands of our officers a few weeks ago, in thirty-one days thirty-four had been successfully traced, which will give you some idea of the completeness of our system. We have also our Labor Bureau which I have already described at some length.

The Governments of the various Colonies have not failed to recognise the worth of our Institutions, and we receive from that of Victoria a grant of £450 per year. We can also count amongst our patrons the Governor of Victoria, the Governor of South Australia, and almost all the Bishops of the women in the country. Of private subscriptions we have no end, and yet believe me, dear War Cry, we are always in need.

And so God has raised up an Army within an Army, and from the various Homes girls are continually going forth to fill situations, while others have been accepted for the work, and are now in training for officeship.

We expect the English contingent to arrive on Thursday next. Already people are rolling in for the great council meetings, and a band of blacks from South Australia are meandering round down the corridors of Headquarters as I write, while the Maoris are somewhere between Melbourne and Sydney.

I have been rather long, but what can a fellow do when he has so much to write about? However I quit at last. The Commissioner and Mrs. Coombs send much love, as does also yours in the Blood and Fire.

FRED. J. MOSS.

"Who Cares About Me?"

How often have I heard this question, not only among the lost and the outcast, but among saints, and in their wretched dwellings, but among well-dressed, intellectual men and women, as, dealing with them personally, one gets the true expression of their soul. They feel their need of a something higher, deeper, nobler, to which they are strangers yet; and driven to a corner in desperation, they acknowledge the bitter feeling that the supermost, that no one cares about their soul's welfare. And as one wends their way hither and yon, from the lowest grade of society, we prove how comparatively few there are who have any real love for the lost, or really care about their spiritual state. But, blessed words, "God is love." He cares. What immensity lies in those three little words! No scientist can fathom the depth of Divine love. He not only loves, but He is love.

Oh, consecrated souls, come ye yourselves, and in the strength of Him who has promised to be our sufficiency, go forward to those souls who are even to-day dying for ever, thinking no one loves them, no one cares. Let us seek so to live armed with the power of His Spirit, and saturated with Divine love, proclaim the blessed fact—God is love and cares for all. Let the sympathetic tone of our voices speak to the most despairing, "I care for you." How much do you care?

Rescue Notes From Many

The Work Fairly Leaps Poor Fallen Women Come for—Their Changed Lives. Help coming in.

Having had the privilege of spending a few days at the Rescue Home, I thought a few notes about the work here would interest the readers of the War Cry. Since Capt. Obert and her assistant have taken charge, the work has commenced in real earnest.

I learnt that in two weeks the women had entered more than in the two weeks before. The officers were away, but in answer to prayer they came back, just ten minutes after the women had left, and then they were all returned. We feel sure God has answered prayer.

The other two followed the men to the barracks on the night of the Army farewell, and at the close of the meeting, a small-form in front of the Home, many cried to God for pardon; they had been slaves to drink for some time, but at the close of the meeting they went into the Rescue Home.

Praise God for a Home for these poor souls. It would do you good to see the change their lives in so short a time; they come there to pray for grace and strength to overcome the drink and sin.

Their eagerness to help and share in the work, is beautiful to see. One of the Capt. going down stairs one morning, one of them said, "Look, Capt. I am doing everything for Jesus; as the same time I am up a-tray that she was polishing. I prayed, the Capt. had been speaking to me about everything that I do. We have every reason to believe some of them are blessedly saved. Praise God.

Friends are beginning to fully realize the help in various ways; but we are still in need of both money and clothing; for this is a noble work. We have most pressing calls sent to Capt. Obert, 11 Plateau St. Home, who will be gladly received. We believe this is only the beginning of a spiritual harvest amongst our fallen sisters. We pray that soon numbers of these dens of iniquity may be no more.

Yours, to help save the lost,

Mrs. Adjt. Loomis.

News from the Hidden

BY RANGER.

God has given me the privilege of visiting a few days amongst my old friends of the Midlands, and I thought I would let you know how the war is progressing in this direction.

We have lost Brig. Spooner from the Home for Boys, and his place has been taken by D.O. Beatty, of the East. God go with the Brigadier, and stay with your successor.

Capt. Eaton, of Kinmount, has just had a banquet, but I did not hear if it was successful or not.

Norland has a new barracks.

At Lindsay Capt. Bowan's other week were rewarded with three souls, the corps is rapidly rising. Glory to God.

Saturday and Sunday the Capt. of Gerow, led the forces at Fenelon Falls victory was on the Lord's side. Sunday night a hardened old sinner (a carter of Gerow's), volunteered for salvation, he was soon followed by another, he got saved, and it would have done your heart good to have seen them both on the march on Sunday. Sunday night Major Anderson farewelled for Montreal, four more got saved. The prospects are grand for a good winter's work.

Peterborough, I believe, is coming nicely.

NOTES.

Wonderful upheavals and changes again this week. At last I have got the revised list of changes, the reconstruction of Brigades, Districts, etc., and am now able to start out on square lines.

And of course I heartily congratulate Father Baugh on his appearance in the target, and he takes no noisy place either, Shake hands, Major. I wonder whether Adjt. Cousins will have heart enough to try and overtake and conquer the former Kingston D.O.

I do heartily believe that Adjt. Addie of the Toronto Division will have to keep his eyes on D.O. Baugh, and I should suggest that the officers of the newly-formed Montreal Division must be up to the light of their new D.O. and take the ring next to the bull's-eye.

Ottawa comes into the Divisional Champions' List. This is a new district and should boom under the command of Adjt. Leonard. Capt. H. Hendricks, now comes along old boy, push things around the Imperial City. Your wife will help you. Let the Capt. and the Lieut. rally to the help of the Lord against the mighty.

The reason of Halifax Districts' fall was because Profit was sent over to the command of Major Baugh, thus taking 200. Never mind, Adjt. Collier, all will come out O.K. Put on more double efforts to pull the Cay and Y.S. I don't see why the Manitoba District should not come on the Target. Now, Major Morris, shoot straighter.

As far as rises go, the last week has not been a remarkable one, but I am happy to see the whole corps rise more than 100 W.O. and Y.S. is the total rise. Praise God. We shall go on to advance. True, 33 of these are Y.S., but better to rise than fall any day. Let us all go in for rising, not falling.

For this rise we have to thank Toronto II., Toronto VIII., Thamesford, Carleton Place, Cornwall, Neepawa, and St. George. Poor Brantford has gone down to the tune of 25. Brampton, why art thou fallen so low? Can you tell me, Capt. Warder?

I am sorry that mistake occurred last week in my notes. D.O. Marshall took second place and not Adjt. Addie. It was quite an oversight. God bless each of these D.O's.

Next week the Brigadiers will appear on the Target.

THE YOUNG SOLDIER.

ONE CENT PER copy, or 10 copies with the Cry, sent to the Prison Gate Brigade, 79 Albert St., Commissioner T. H. A.

THE WAR CRY CONTAINS ALL THE Notices of the War, and is circulated by the General Officers and Soldiers. There is no more effective means to spread the news of the WAR CRY, which is circulated in Canada and Newfoundland, and by its success all who read it be a more earnest and energetic attack upon the kingdom of the one, and the more confident efforts to extend the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Printed, with all S.A. publications, at the Printing House, 79 Albert Street, Toronto, by PRISONER T. H. ADAMS.

Our Social Reform Branch.

Missing and Enquiry Department.

Of late many lost ones have been restored to their loved ones, causing great joy in many homes. This is a wonderful departure and we are open to do our best to find any missing ones. Will our friends when writing, send us full particulars of dates, places, etc., writing the names of persons and places very legibly.

No Charge is Made for Advertisement.

Our Rescue Homes.

IT IS A FACT that we have FIVE RESCUE HOMES opened in this Dominion, and shall shortly have another two in full swing. We need much practical help in this matter. Will our friends in particular at Toronto, Strafford, London, St. John and Montreal and in general everywhere, make a note of this. Donations to be sent to Mrs. Adams, corner Wilton Avenue, Toronto.

The Prison Gate Work

Has been thoroughly established. Two Homes have been opened. No. 1 in Toronto, and No. 2 in Kingston. Already God has given us wonderful success. Several ex-prisoners are in the Home at Toronto. Some of these have been soundly converted, and testify to the fact. We are in great need of warm underclothing, etc.

Come to our help in this respect.

The Shelter for Little Children

Has been opened in Toronto. Already there are a number of little folk within its walls. It is a wonderful work and should have the sympathy of all. Don't fail to help us in our efforts to get the dear children saved.

All Donations thankfully received by Mrs. Adams.
